Description

Seeland Helt II Jacket Grizzly Brown

The Helt II jacket is a good-looking, warm jacket, designed for stand hunting, from late autumn and well into winter. As well as being windproof and waterproof due to the SEETEX® membrane, it includes a wealth of useful functionality, prompted by the feedback received from experienced hunters.

The jacket also incorporates a waterproof fold-out seat panel for comfort and protection when sitting on a wet high seat or similar. On the left chest is a zipped radio pocket with an antenna eyelet, and there are handwarmer pockets lined with soft, warm fleece, which are also zipped. There are two very large front pockets with silent magnetic closures and a large zipped game pocket at the back.

The Helt II jacket's removable hood is large enough to wear a beanie or cap underneath, and it has an elasticated drawstring for adjustment. The jacket has a high collar, lined with soft, warm fleece. The stretch fabric at the cuffs has thumbholes for a snug fit around the wrists.

The main two-way zip is covered by a windproof flap with press studs, and there is a drawstring at the bottom hem to keep the warmth in and the cold out.

On the inside, there are a pair of straps sewn in, so you can remove the jacket and wear it like a rucksack.

Team together with the Seeland Helt II Trousers for assured full freedom of movement and protection.
